Both Factions Seek Peaceful Solution

Yesterday was another day of feverish talk but no violence as the struggle over the moving of the first Negro family into Levittown entered its fifth day of crisis with both sides urging calm and peace.

Although both sides circulated reports that William Myers would try to move into his 49 Deepgreen Lane home with his family at 6 p.m. today, a check this morning showed that Myers was still uncertain what he would do.

Reached at his Bloomsdale Gardens home this morning after he returned from a visit with his parents in York, Myers said, "I haven't given it (moving in) much thought lately."

"As soon as I talk it over with my advisors, I'll come up with a decision," he said.

If the family does move in at this time it will run head on into the third mass protest meeting in as many days. The protest meeting, called by the newly formed Levittown Betterment Committee, is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. It will be held off Haines Road, behind the house at 276 Dogwood Drive, just a block from the home of the Negroes, Mr. and Mrs. William Myers and their three children.

Leader Telegraphed

As a result of this situation the Citizens Committee of Levittown has telegraphed Governor Leader "violence is a probability." The citizens committee was formed several days ago to foster an atmosphere that would encourage persons who are neutral or who favor the move of the Myers to speak out. The group met last night at the William Penn Center, Fallsington.

At the same time the Betterment Committee was meeting in Dogwood Hollow in an effort to find a way to force the Myers to leave the community. More than 700 persons attended the meeting.

Road Blocked

After the meeting many persons made their way to the Myers' house. State police had blocked off the road leading to the area but residents on foot were able to pass through.

Again for the fourth night in a row a large crowd accumulated on the street around the home. Despite the fact that the Myers' family was not in the well-guarded house the people milled around for hours. There were no incidents or reports of disorders.

Last night's protest meeting on Haines road drew a larger gathering than Thursday night despite the fact that the location was not selected until 7:25 p.m.

Outlaws Stir Killing Rage

SAIGON, Indochina (UP)—Communist and outlaw gangs are spreading a new superstition in western Viet Nam that "he who kills 10 dead men, it says,

Saigon's newspapers said tales of supernatural rewards for murder are being circulated near Chau Doc, a town 100 miles west of Saigon where 17 men, women and children were tied hand and foot last month and shot to death by outlaws.

According to the superstition, a person who kills 100 men becomes an angel. A slain pregnant woman is worth 10 dead men, it says.

Newsmen who traveled in the area said most townsfolk laugh at the superstition, but that villagers in the rural areas take them very seriously.

They said the superstition was spread by the Communists and by illegal elements of the HOA HAO sect, one of the Indochina religious sects that fought President Ngo Dinh Diem's government.

Father Accidentally Throws Gas On Tot

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Evelyn Kazian, 3, suffered critical burns over her entire body last night when her father accidentally threw a pan of flaming gasoline on her.

The father, George, 38, said he was heating the gas over the kitchen stove to clean paint brushes when it ignited. He ran to the back door and hurled out the flaming liquid, unaware his daughter was coming up the steps.

Kazian suffered burns of both arms and his chest beating out the child's flaming clothes while his wife, Eva, ran out front and struck a fire alarm.

Kazian was treated at Misericordia Hospital and released. Evelyn was admitted with second and third degree burns on her entire body. Her condition was critical.

Fall Festival Set To Benefit School

Further plans for the Fall Festival were discussed at a meeting of the Newtown Catholic Men's Association at the home of Dr. Raymond V. Hennessy, Sycamore Street, Newtown.

The affair which will benefit St. Andrew's Parochial School building fund is slated for Saturday, Sept. 14, at Chain Bridge, near Richboro. John Moran is general chairman of the event.

A chicken barbecue dinner will be served from 3 to 8 p.m., with clams, steamed or on the half shell available. A cake sale will be held in conjunction with the meal.

A baby contest will be held with a prize for the healthiest child from one day to six months of age; for the six month to two-year baby with the best personality.

There will be a fish pond and pony rides for the children, with a variety of games for the grown-ups.

A special meeting of the Fall Festival project has been slated for Thursday, Aug. 29, at 8 p.m. at St. Andrew's Church.

It was reported that work on the addition to the parochial school is progressing nicely, with the roof on, rough plumbing and electrical work completed, half of the concrete floors have been laid and grading will be started next week.

The next regular meeting of the Association will be held at the home of president Joseph Gorski, Penns Park, Wednesday, Sept. 11.

Russell Vows To Fight Aid Restoration

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell vowed today to fight any move in the Senate to restore even part of the $942,000,000 newly-slashed by the House from President Eisenhower's foreign aid bill.

Opposition from Russell—leader of the southern bloc and a power on the Senate Appropriations Committee that will consider the bill next Monday—gave clear indication that the expected GOP fight for major restoration of funds faces rough going.

The Georgia Democrat said he did not think the House cuts too severe, despite administration warnings last night that the reduction would hamper efforts to keep Russian influence from gaining in many areas of the world.

Officials of the International Cooperation Administration said the cuts would require the United States to drop plans to ship Nike guided missiles and other modern weapons to Allied nations.

Russell said "The House bill with the carryover funds gives the program more than can be spent and I know more than should be 'spent' in the current fiscal year.

The House, defying Eisenhower's warning that he might call a special session if the aid program were reduced too much, cut the $3,367,000,000 authorization bill to $2,524,760,000. The new money was in addition to $667,050,000 in unspent "carryover" funds.

Other congressional news:

Civil Rights: House GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass.) headed for a White House breakfast with President Eisenhower to talk over the civil rights bill. The bill is stuck in the House Rules Committee with Chairman Howard Smith (D-Va.) holding the key to quick action on the measure. Smith, a foe of the measure, was reported to have said he would not call a committee meeting, thus possibly blocking action until next Friday.

Driver Shears 'Phone Pole

A Philadelphia man awaits trial on charges of drunken driving and driving too fast for conditions after shearing a telephone pole with his car on Route 13 in Cornwells Heights at 3:30 a.m. today.

He is Frederick Trew, 2822 North Broad St., Philadelphia. His car sheared the pole at the bottom, but no wires were torn down. He was transported to Lower Bucks County Hospital by Bucks County Rescue Squad. Treatment there for deep cuts, which required 12 stitches.

Damage to his car was estimated at between $1200 and $1300 by Patrolman Walker Fell, Bensalem Township police, who investigated.

Justice of the Peace Albert Schultz, Bensalem Township, released Trew on $500 bail. He was charged with drunken driving after being tested by Dr. Nicholas Brakoes, Lower Bucks County Hospital.

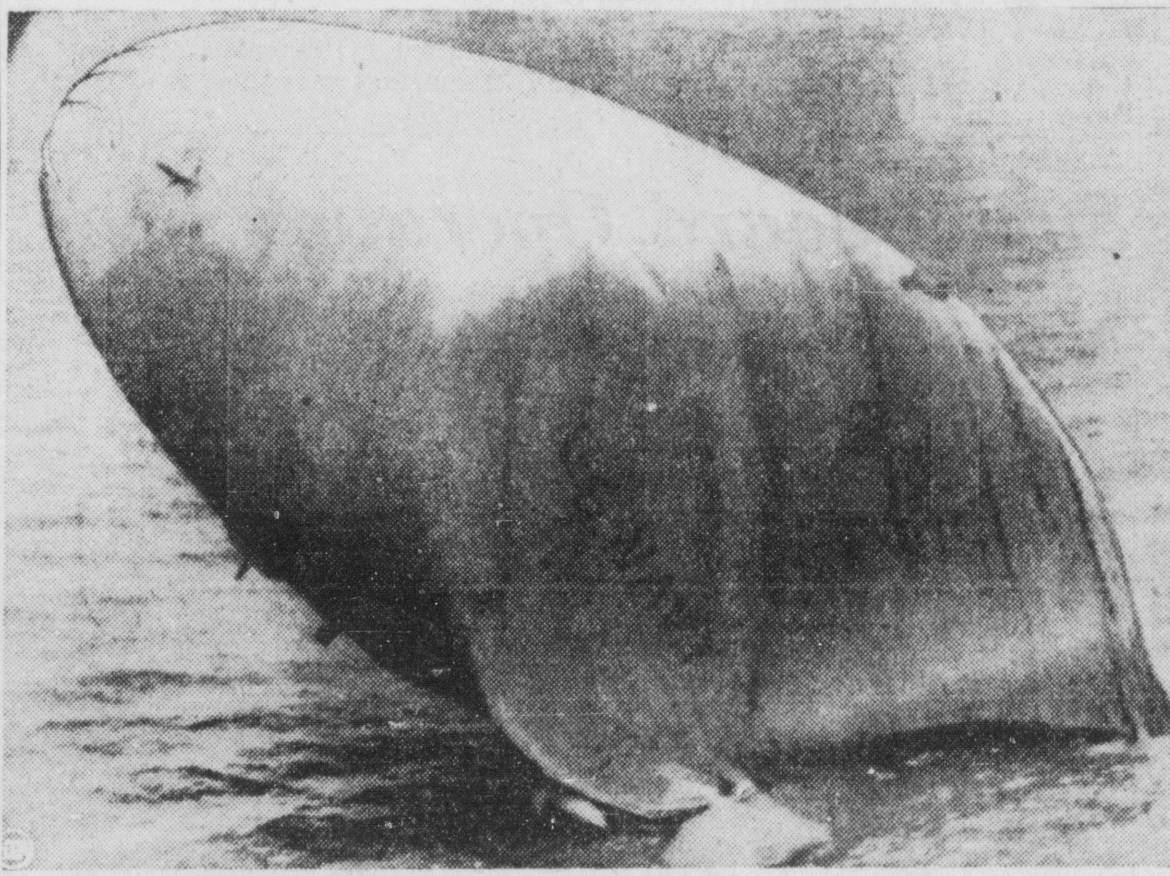

Brotherly Love Tested In Auto Collision

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (UP)—Brotherly love was put to a test on a highway near here Friday.

The Rev. Harrison Crews of Auburndale was returning home when his car collided head-on with one driven by his brother, Doyle Crews of Wauchula.

State trooper Glenn A. Swafford said Doyle Crews' car swerved to the left of the center line as it rounded a curve. Neither of the men was hurt, but Mrs. Doyle Crews received head injuries.

Down At Sea

A crew of nine men aboard this Navy blimp on a training mission from Glynco, Ga., to Lakehurst, N.J., escaped death when their craft started losing gas pressure and plopped down in the sea near North Carolina outer banks. The nine crewmen took to life-rafts — rode out a storm — and were rescued by a small fishing boat.

Pole Escapes To Asylum In Britain

LONDON (UP)—Britain granted political asylum today to a Polish diplomat who said his Communist wife spied on him for the secret police.

Mieczyslaw Reluga, 26, an assistant to the Polish commercial attaché, fled the Polish Embassy to freedom with his four-year-old son. He was to have been sent home tomorrow.

A Polish secret policeman tried to stop him, but with Scotland Yard agents watching from a distance, Reluga ran to a taxi and disappeared into London traffic.

The home office announced without elaboration that Reluga had applied for political asylum and had received permission to remain in Britain.

Reluga's wife, who kept Polish secret agents informed about his movements in Britain, already had flown home to Poland with their two-year-old daughter.

Soldier Said Victim Of Own Gun Wound

NEW CUMBERLAND, Pa. (UP)—Army Specialist 2-C Jesse E. Neill was found dead in his home here Friday with a bullet wound near his heart which authorities said was self-inflicted.

The 36-year-old soldier was stationed at the New Cumberland Disciplinary Barracks.

Army Helps Raise Angel Over Village

SACILE, Italy — (UP) — A new angel watches over this tiny town 50 miles north of Venice today, compliments of the parish priest and the U.S. Army.

Ten thousand villagers watched in breath-taking silence yesterday as an air force helicopter lifted the 1,400-pound copper statue and its iron base to the top of San Nicola Church where workmen grabbed it and secured it to the belfry 200 feet above the ground.

Only then did the villagers shout approval and clap their hands.

The copper statue replaced a wooden "angel" that stood on the belfry for centuries. In 1936, however, an earth-

Maureen O'Hara's 'Dalliance' Told

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Movie-land quaked in its boots today with film stars accused of sexy escapades having little hope of escaping further embarrassment resulting from sizzling testimony recorded in the Confidential magazine criminal libel trial.

Highlight of the trial thus far came prior to adjournment yesterday when red-haired Maureen O'Hara's alleged cuddling session with a Latin escort in the darkened last row of Grauman's Chinese Theater was described in detail by defense witness James Craig.

Spectators were spellbound when a buxom, blonde newspaper woman and Craig, a former assistant manager of the theater, entangled themselves across three courtroom chairs recreating the scene Craig said took place.

This testimony, plus defense attorney Arthur Crowley's promise to call more witnesses to relate other playful indiscretions, indicated that subpoenaed movie stars had cause to fret.

"I've subpoenaed a hundred people," Crowley said, "and you may be sure I'll call in as many stars as I deem necessary to win my case."

Craig was the first witness called by Crowley to prove the truth of stories published in Confidential and Whisper in the case against Fred and Marjorie Meade, who ran Hollywood Research Inc., West Coast listening post for the magazines.

Craig told the jury he had met Miss O'Hara in Ireland previously, and recognized her when she entered the theater with a man in November, 1953.

"An hour after they were seated," he testified, "I found the gentleman was seated facing the screen, but Miss O'Hara was laying across his lap. Her blouse was undone. She looked very disheveled and very untidy."

Craig said he returned with a (Continued on Page 3, Col. 1)

Milk Strike Postponed

NEW YORK (UP)—A threatened walkout by 1,200 milk truck drivers that would cut off 95 per cent of the New York area's milk supply was averted for at least the week end early today.

Negotiators for the Teamsters Union and employers broke off talks for the week end without reaching agreement.

Although the union had threatened to instruct its members to walk off their jobs at midnight Saturday, the drivers were told to continue pickups and deliveries until Monday.

Representatives of both sides will meet again Monday in an effort to reach agreement. Federal, state and city mediators were unable early today to narrow the gap between union demands and employer counter-proposals.

It was learned the local had twice modified its original demand for a 75-cent package increase on a three-year contract. The employers, represented by the Dairy Transport Assn., were believed to have stood pat on their offer of a 50-cent package covering a four-year contract.

Shasta Postponed For 19th Time

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—Detonation of atomic device "Shasta" early today was postponed for the 19th time when Atomic Energy Commission officials determined wind conditions would result in an unacceptable fallout pattern.

The AEC rescheduled the test, which was set for 5 a.m. p.d.t. today, for the same time Monday morning.

Probers Seek To Prove Tie With Crime

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Rackets Committee will call James R. Hoffa next week to bolster its charge that the crown prince of Teamsters allied with the underworld to grab Teamster control in New York.

In 13 days of hearings the committee has stated its case against Hoffa and called a string of witnesses to back it up, working up from second - team hoodlums to bigger hoods to the second-echelon brass of the nation's biggest union.

Next week's witnesses are expected to include:

—Hoffa himself, Midwest czar of the union as chairman of its Central States Conference, sixth vice president, odds-on choice to succeed Dave Beck next month as Teamster president, and villain of the committee's version of the story.

—Einar O. Mohn, another vice president, right-hand man to Beck, and apparently the man who runs Teamster's headquarters here in Beck's absence.

The plot revolves around a charge that Hoffa got the Teamsters Union to issue charters for seven phony, memberless locals in New York shortly before the 1956 election for president of Joint Council 16, controlling body of the Teamsters in New York City. The committee says the fake locals were staffed with henchmen of labor racketeers Johnny Dio and Anthony (Tony Ducks) Corallo, and cast their votes for Hoffa's candidate, John T. O'Rourke.

The committee also presented evidence that some of the delegates who cast the phony locals' votes for O'Rourke were recruited from crap games and bars, and some persons listed as union officers didn't know they held office.

The committee said that while Hoffa was dealing with Corallo and Dio to set up the paper locals and control Joint Council 16, he also was dickering with the International Longshoremen's Association—booted out of the AFL in 1953 for being riddled with racketeers—for an ambitious alliance. Mother Kills 3 And Self To Erase Rising Debts

Letter Tells Of Spending For New Car

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UP)—A letter from the dead explained today that a war hero's family of four was shot to death Thursday so their life insurance could pay their debts.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Harris, owners of the cottage in Colorado Springs where M-Sgt. Leo Dandoy's family of four lived and died, said Mrs. Magdalena Dandoy, 34, wrote them a long letter explaining why she killed her family and her self.

Police said Mrs. Dandoy shot her 41-year-old husband and their two sons, Daniel, 11, and Edralin, 10, while they slept and then turned the .38-caliber revolver on herself.

Mrs. Dandoy said in her letter that they purchased a new car July 19 for $4935 and that she borrowed the balance, above an $1800 trade-in, from a loan company without her husband's knowledge. She handled the family funds.

She said her husband thought they had the cash to pay for the car.

"He believed me about savings," the letter stated, "I have a confession to make. I lied to him."

She said they owed a bank another $1,706, in addition to other bills amounting to $788.

She wrote that she didn't know how to make the payments until she thought of the life insurance—$8,000 on her husband and $2,500 on herself and the boys.

"I went to money borrowing, forging his (her husband's) signature," she wrote, "I have ruined his future, and our sons. These must all come to an end."

The Harris family did not explain how it came into possession of the letter.

Mamie Stays In Hospital

WASHINGTON UP — White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said today there is "no indication" that Mrs. Eisenhower will return from the hospital this week.

Hagerty said in response to questions that he does not know exactly when the First Lady will leave Walter Reed Hospital where she has been recuperating from an Aug. 6 operation. She underwent a hysterectomy.

Hagerty has already announced that the President will remain at the White House over the week end.

ance which would give him a transportation stranglehold on the Atlantic seaboard and St. Lawrence Seaway.

ILA President Testifies

Capt. William Bradley, ILA president, told the committee yesterday part of the deal was to be a $490,000 loan from the Teamsters to bail the ILA out of debt to Mine Workers President John L. Lewis and pay off its bills. He said his union gave Hoffa notes for $490,000, never got the money, and cannot now get its notes back.

Bradley said the alliance collapsed in March, 1956 when Meany got wind of it and threatened to drive the Teamsters out of the AFL-CIO.

Thomas L. Hickey, Teamster vice president and general organizer for the New York area, told the committee yesterday Hoffa okayed the phony charter after his original plan to bring Dio into the union fell through.

Hickey also told the startled committee—which hadn't heard of it—that he is running for president of the union against Hoffa and if elected will clean out the racketeers.

Levittown Betterment Committee Protests

Over 700 Levittowners, who are members of the anti-Negro Levittown Betterment Committee, thronged last night to a meeting on Haines Road, to protest William Myers and his family from moving into Dogwood Hollow. meeting would be held there. Some sources estimated 1000 persons were at the ball field at one time or other.

When the meeting place was finally decided on a team of committee workers started making a series of telephone calls. Mrs. Jean Frankenstein, secretary of the group, said she made at least 105 calls notifying others to pass the word on about the location of the meeting place.

Avoid Violence

Newell and other speakers repeatedly urged the group to avoid "mob violence." "We have to settle this by peaceful means," he said. At one point he suggested residents boycott any delivery men which served the Negro family.

But when a resident in the crowd said that such a boycott was illegal, Newell withdrew the suggestion. Action of this sort was left up to the judgment of individuals.

John Bentley, 41 Autumn Lane, Appletree Hill, Levittown, former zoning officer of Bristol Township, advised those present "not to panic. Don't put your house up for sale because of this. That is what they want." His comments were greeted with loud cheers.

The national spotlight has been focused on Levittown's problem. Television, radio, and the newspapers and wire services covered both meetings last night.

Many Levittown residents objected to some of the national reports which have stressed "acts of violence." They called this newspaper office to point out that all meetings have been orderly and the only acts of violence were the stones that broke the Meyers' windows Tuesday night.

At the protest meeting it was said that the rock throwing had been done by youngsters and that all the adults in Levittown were against any type of violence.

Hasty Telegram

The newly-formed Citizens' Committee of Levittown, sent a hastily worded telegram to Gov. George Leader last night telling him of an impending "violence" at tonight's mass protest meeting in Dogwood Hollow, Levittown.

About 75 Levittowners at the William Penn Center, Fallsington, sent the message after hearing reports that "the other group (anti-Negro)" said it was holding a meeting at 5:30 p.m. because they heard the Meyers family is supposed to come at 6 p.m."

Prayer Meetings

Kent Larabee, of the Bucks County Human Relations Council, said, "We advocate prayer meetings in all churches today and urge all Levittowners to pray that violence doesn't come into play."

The Citizens' Committee of Levittown has slated another meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at the center. The body will be divided into sub-committees for work, Mr. Larabee said.

Mr. Larabee urged residents not to panic. "A calming attitude now is imperative," spokesmen said.

Two ladies left the meeting angry, saying their suggestions were "jeered" by the committee. Mr. Larabee expressed concern and told the group, "They came with an open mind and instead of being understood, they were received in the wrong way."

"We must learn to respect the feelings of others who disagree with us," he said. "I'm glad to have Jim Doheny with us," Mr. Larabee said.

Earlier Mr. Doheny had said, "I believe the Negro is entitled to have as good a home and schools as I have — better even but I think they should have them separate."

"I'm sorry for the Meyers," he said, "and I'm sorry for the whites, too. They're emotionally befuddled. They thought they were moving into an all-white community, and I'm sorry for them."

At times the crowd formed into a marching group and paraded in orderly fashion down the sidewalk and up the street in front of the Levittown house.

Women and Children

The paraders included many women and several small children.

The crowd was mostly of good nature and posed readily for news-reel cameras, still photographers and movie takers.

Stern state troopers, under the command of Major William Ruch and Captain Alfred Verbecken, followed the actions of the crowd.

The troopers were never forced to move from their assigned spots in front of the Meyers' home.

Milled Around House

Bristol Township Police, under Chief John R. Stewart, were also on hand as they have been day and night since the incident began.

The crowd began slimming slowly by 11 p.m. About 100 persons were still milling around at that time with the greater majority being youngsters.

At one point in the early part of the parading, a youngster, no more than seven years old, was the first marcher as the group passed the home.

Loudest cheer of the evening came when the jingle of an ice cream truck was heard down the block.

Jingles Stopped

The ice cream man did a "landslide" business as the customers lined up for his wares. Closest thing to an incident was created when a Bristol Township Officer warned the ice cream man it was against a township ordinance to sound his bell after 8 o'clock.

The jingles were stopped amidst cries of "this is America" and the ice cream man continued his sales.

An open mind and instead of being of the officers whose vacations were cancelled during the crisis, said he wished everyone would go home.

"Most of the people here are merely curiosity seekers. The leaders have stated they know nothing legal can be done and nothing illegal will be attempted here."

"So why don't they go home?"

Unlawful Assemblage

The Captain pointed out the crowd was forming in unlawful assemblage and could legally be dispersed. As long as it stays orderly, there is little we will do about keeping them away, he said.

As an outgrowth of the incident the first night a crowd formed outside of the Meyers' home, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bencliff, 900 Dogwood Drive, were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct.

Right to Protection

Last night the Bencliff's said they have received three threatening letters in the mail and almost two dozen telephone calls threatening them.

One person called and said, "We're going to get your daughter." The Bencliff's daughter, Dalene, is 14.

"We have a right to protection, too. I've reported this to Chief Stewart and he said he would get the FBI on the case," Mrs. Bencliff said.

All the letters were unsigned and none of the callers identified themselves, Mrs. Bencliff said.

The meeting at William Penn Center was chairmanned by the Rev. Daniel Stevick, president of the Lower Bucks County Council of Churches.

A seven-point program on "What We Can Do To Stop Violence," was adopted and included: Don't panic. Work up a fact sheet to squelch rumors. Have church bodies draw a "Declaration of Conscience." Flood the mails with "letters to the editor" opposing violence. Call neighbors and friends and tell them how you feel about the Meyers' situation. Appeal to real estate men not to take advantage of panic-selling. Distribute literature on tolerance.

Rev. Daniel Stevick emphasized to the William Penn Center group that Protestants, Catholic, and Jewish denominations take a united stand for integration. A CBS-TV film-clip was made of committeemen asking Rev. Stev-ick about the various stands taken by the religious sects.

"We must plan for long-range educational programs," Rev. Stevick said. "Our seven-point program won't stop the violence. It'll help, but we must work toward the time when such a program won't be needed. Long-range education is needed," the clergyman said.

Fact Sheet

A "fact sheet" was distributed at the meeting at William Penn Center, compiled by the Bucks County Human Relations Council, and designed to clear rumors about the Meyers family and situation.

The "fact sheet" said the settlement on the Meyers' house was made Saturday, Aug. 11, for a sum of $12,150 — "fair market value in consideration of additions to the house." The home has an extra room and garage.

No realtor was involved in the transaction, the release said, however it was pointed out that a former listing had lapsed.

The house was sold by a Mr. Mandel, the fact sheet said, "because Mr. Meyers made the best offer and could get the necessary down payment and mortgage."

"The Meyers family sought and had no organizational backing," the release said, "or financial support in their move. They wanted it to be as much a normal move as it could be."

Rev. Stevick said the NAACP does not encourage such moves, but does offer legal support if needed. The Human Relations Council, he said, stands for integration and was "interested in the move."

More Fact Sheet Info

Background information on the Meyers from the fact sheet included: "Mr. Meyers is a veteran, a graduate of Hampton Institute where he did some teaching on a fellowship. He is employed by the C. V. Hill Co. of Trenton, as a laboratory technician. Mrs. Meyers is a college graduate and a former teacher. They have three children ages four, two-and-a-half years, and one month. Both Mr. and Mrs. Meyers have been very active in civic organizations in the Bristol-Levittown area; they are members of the Bristol Township Democratic organization and the Bloomsdale Gardens Civic Association. Mrs. Meyers has been an active member of the League of Women Voters and has been invited to join the American Association of University Women. Mr. Meyers has been a

Competition Noted In Pricing Steel

WASHINGTON UP — The vice president of U.S. Steel Corp. said yesterday that the similarity in prices charged by various steel manufacturers for their products is "real evidence" of the high degree of competition in the steel industry.

The official, Richard F. Sentner, said there is "no place in our commercial planning or policy on auction-type pricing of our steel products."

One-Price Policy

Sentner made his statements in testimony prepared for the Senate anti-trust subcommittee which is investigating the recent increase in steel prices. He said that his firm has a one-price policy of charging all its customers — big or little — the same for steel products.

He said U.S. Steels' customers have to plan their steel needs over a long period and they "simply will not pay more to one supplier than to another."

"Each of our individual customers faces competition in his own market," Sentner said. "If we were to charge one customer more for his steel than we charged a competitor of his, we would be impairing his ability to compete."

He said that if U.S. Steel sold its products when they were in short supply at higher prices this might yield "a handsome quick profit." But he said this would be a "short-sighted policy that would surely lead to serious discrimination among our customers."

Boy Becomes Well Known With Police

RICHMOND, Va. UP — A 14-year-old West Virginia boy only took 10 minutes to make himself well known in Richmond—with the police force.

In those ten minutes, John Edward Wilson of South Charleston, W. Va., drove a stolen 1957 car through outskirts of the city at 85 miles an hour, crashed into a police car, and rammed another police car and a truck.

Three young hitch-hikers, who apparently hadn't bargained on the ride they were getting, hopped out and narrowly escaped being hit by one of the police cars chasing Wilson. They were Johnny Harrison, 14, his sister, Kathryn, 7, and Robert Knighton, 17, of nearby Henrico County. They received no serious injuries.

Wilson was finally halted by a traffic light, a truck and three police cars which boxed him in behind the truck. Police said he admitted stealing the car Wednesday in Charleston, W. Va. He has been charged with possession of a stolen car at the Henrico County jail.

W. T. Grant Stores Name Two Executives

At a meeting of the board of directors, held in New York this week, Howard E. Eades and Herbert T. Wilkinson were elected vice presidents of the W. T. Grant Company.

Both men are products of the company's executive training program, and have worked their way up through the ranks to their top executive positions. Mr. Eades, born in Rome, N.Y., began his career in 1927 in the New Haven store. After two years of general store experience, he was made an assistant manager in 1929. Three years later he was made store manager. After a four-year stint in the U.S. Army, where he served as captain, he resumed his career and in 1951 succeeded to the position of district manager. In 1954, he became company personnel director.

Mr. Wilkinson, currently serving as Store Management Director started with the Company in 1929. He too progressed through the ranks to the management of several of the company's largest stores. After two years of Navy duty, he was appointed Eastern Regional Merchandise manager. In 1955, he became Eastern Regional Manager, responsible for the operation of 180 stores.

The W. T. Grant Company operates 660 stores in 41 states. Last year the company did over $380,000,000 retail business.

committee had no hard feelings toward the Negro (Mr. Myers). We don't want the man injured. We can't understand why he picked our town. We want him to go. We want to get back to normal."

Newell and the reporter engaged in a calm debate over the Myers incident and the motives and purposes of the Levittown Betterment Committee.

The reporter and her photographer later covered the mass meeting. They were not bothered at all although the subject of many glances.

Club Hears School Talk

Merle Snyder, chairman of the general advisory committee of the Lower Bucks County Technical High School, spoke at the weekly meeting of the Levittown Kiwanis Club, in Pennsbury Inn.

Snyder stated that the idea for a joint technical school was first conceived in 1952 by the trades and industry division of the Pennsylvania Department of Education and local school districts.

The idea was revived in 1955 and questionnaires circulated to school districts, students and parents.

Preliminary plans were made in 1956 and the architect consulted and a site purchased, he said. This year the project was put out for bid and construction of the 900 pupil school is expected to start soon.

Member school districts are Bristol, Bensalem, Falls Lower Makefield Townships and Morrisville, Yardley and Tullytown Boroughs.

Boating Group Names Chairman

Walter E. Powell Jr., of 38 Nettletree Lane, Levittown, has been named Levittown chairman of the National Boating association, it was announced recently by Elmer Hifner, national president.

Mr. Powell, an electronics engineer, is a member of the Penn Manor Club.

The National Boating association, a non-profit organization incorporated last year, has over 4,000 members at present.

Its purposes are to assist boating and water enthusiasts with their problems and queries on their craft or other waterfront activities, to promote safety and enjoyment of boating and water activities, and is the official voice for the legislative proposals of its membership.

Council to Resume Recessed Meeting

Morrisville Borough Council will resume its recessed council meeting Tuesday night at 8 p.m. at the borough hall.

Five committee reports are still yet to report on this month's activities.

Reports will be heard from the sanitation committee, the police committee, the finance committee, the public property committee, and the fire committee.

Morrisville Borough Secretary Bob Steward said the business to be discussed at the recessed session would be mostly of routine nature.
